HOLIDAY CALL FOR ALL

Donors Too Late for Christmas Drive Have Time to Help New Year's Plans.

A word of reassurance seems to be asked for by donors who are saying in the notes accompanying new contributions to the smoke fund that they hope they are in time for the Christmas drive. Well, if it should happen that a donor to the fund was too late to figure in the honor roll of Christmas, his money will be a welcome addition to the fund for buying New Year's smokes. New Year in France is a greater festival even than Christmas, and certainly every one will want the American soldiers abroad to feel unlimited joy when the first day of the Peace Year, 1919, dawns.

A big batch of cards have arrived from various base hospitals, and it is amazing to read of the high spirits of our wounded men. "Whether we come home as soon as we are patched up or stay we don't know, but we're eager to do our duty." This was sent over by Private C. F. Barnes.

Nurse Bridget A. Timlin of Base Hospital 15 sends along this card: "Cigarettes received and distributed to patients. All were appreciative of being remembered and thank The Sun."

To six donors Mrs. A. Soper comes a card from Camp Hospital 41 written by Harry Scholter, night ward master: "The carton of cigarettes was distributed among the patients in this hospital. I passed them around among the boys, who all join in sending thanks to you."

Second Lieut. Matthew A. McCourt, mess officer in Base Hospital 78, writes to a donor: "I took great pleasure in issuing to the patients of this hospital the gift of the large box of tobacco which you were kind enough to donate through The Sun Tobacco Fund."

Private soldiers have signed their names to these sentiments and mailed it as a souvenir to Mrs. Ida V. Enders, who sang at Cooper Union for the smoke fund last winter: "You will be gratified to know that your tobacco gift was received at the time when the ambulance was signed and we had just returned from the lines and were hungry for smokes." Quartermaster Sergeant Douglas R. Jacobs, Sergeant George D. Barah, Corporal L. H. Eckert and Privates James P. Dougherty, R. N. Giness, E. N. Frahm, Edward H. Reil, J. L. Smeil, M. O'Hara, Albert J. Martin, C. J. O. Farrell, John Smith, James Melvin.

Private William P. Beck of Company D, Forty-seventh Infantry, is the author of this epistle to Will Rogers: "Believe me, your cigarettes sure do taste good. We sure were glad to get them. The boys sure do enjoy a flatter mail. Thanking you for same, I remain yours respectfully."

On November 11 Robert S. Parsons, who gives his home address as 523 Ninth avenue, Manhattan, Pa., says: "These few lines will let you know that a defender of the glory received your generous donation. All is well with the A. E. F. victory has crowned our efforts and we hope to be back soon."

Oil Branch Heard From.

The gasoline and oil branch made their first appearance in the smoke fund story in this succinct fashion of words: "Accept the thanks and appreciation of this station for 500 cigarettes."

On November 13 Lieut. J. D. Emme of Company B, 107th Machine Gun Battalion, tells how a bunch of boys coming out of the trenches received a welcome present of cigarettes. "The very thought that those back home are with us through it all has been most inspiring and patriotic. Best wishes and regards to all the kind Americans and with many thanks to The Sun for the trouble it has taken."

Sophie Tucker, the irrepressible Sun Tobacco Fund booster, has a card written on the same day, November 13, from the "Buffaloes" in "A" Company. She writes: "May we measure up to all that you noble hearted Americans have thought of us and may Old Glory soon unfurl over all the lands of auld."

DOUBLEDAY—VAN WYCK.

Brother Announces Marriage of New York Girl to Publisher.

Frank N. Doubleday, the publisher, and Miss Florence Van Wyck of this city were married on November 27 in the chantry of Grace Church and have sailed for Europe on a wedding trip, according to an announcement yesterday by Stephen Van Wyck, 16 William street, a brother of the bride.

The ceremony was performed quietly in the presence of only the immediate relatives of the couple. The bride also is a sister of Frederick Van Wyck, 40 Wall street, and of Mrs. William White of Boston, wife of Capt. William White, U. S. N. retired.

Mr. Doubleday, who is president of the publishing firm of Doubleday, Page & Co., at Garden City, lives on the West Shore road at Oyster Bay. He has three children, Nelson and Felix Doubleday, and Mrs. Huntington Babcock of this city.

Mr. Doubleday's first wife died in February in Canton, China. They left New York together in December, 1917, and had planned a trip through the Orient. Mr. Doubleday was to have done some unofficial business for the American Red Cross during the journey, but the death of his wife caused an abandonment of the tour. She was a daughter of Liverius De Graff of Chicago and was married to Mr. Doubleday June 9, 1885. She had written fiction under the name of "Nettie Blanchard" and had been deeply interested in charity and in Red Cross work.

Passaic Principal Charges 200 of 800 Children Admit Use of Intoxicants.

DOPED BY COUGH DROPS

One Girl of Ten, Drunk at Her Desk, Had Served Behind Father's Bar.

Charges that Passaic, N. J., children are being served beer and whiskey in East Side saloons there and that many go to school under the influence of drink were made yesterday by Miss Alma L. Smith, principal of School No. 2. Gustav Schmidt, Chief of Police, has detailed men to investigate the charges.

Miss Smith said that 200 of the 800 youngsters in her school admitted having obtained intoxicants in saloons or having bought a brand of cough drops sold by local drug stores which contain 64 per cent. of grain alcohol, in addition to ether. The cough drops were known among the children as "white whiskey," she said. All the pupils examined by her were under 14 years and a majority of them girls. Miss Smith said. They were picked out in the classrooms, according to the principal, because they were stupefied and some even intoxicated.

One little girl 19 years old was found asleep at her desk. Miss Smith complained. She said she detected the odor of liquor on the child's body broke down on being questioned and admitted that she had spent the previous day, which was Sunday, standing on a box behind her father's bar in her father's saloon and selling beer.

"The children are so doped at times that they don't know what they are doing," said Miss Smith. "They come to school and fall asleep and some of them don't really wake up until just before time to go home. It is terrible to work here trying to make good citizens of these children and then have them fed with intoxicants and told by their parents that the school authorities are crazy to advise against such things."

BORDEN MILLIONS IN ISSUE.

Appraiser Appointed in Contested Will Case.

The long contested will of the late M. C. D. Borden, wealthy cotton manufacturer, who in a codicil left his estate to his son, Dr. Matthew S. Borden, $2,154,121, contingent on the latter divorcing or outliving his wife, again was brought to the attention of the courts yesterday when surrogate Colahan appointed Timothy Murray to appraise the value of the stock held by the elder Borden in the American Printing Company.

A referee had found that Minerva, Mariel and Harriet Borden, daughters of the distinguished physician, were entitled to interest in certain shares of the stock of the printing company.

Dr. Borden married against his father's wishes Mildred Neubauer, daughter of a New Haven tailor, in 1907, while he was a student at Yale. He was induced to divorce her a year later, but remarried her within two years. She added him to get a medical education. He was killed, with three others, September 9, 1914, in a collision between his automobile and a locomotive at Paterson, N. J. He left an estate of only $300. Since then his widow and daughters have been trying to share in the millions left by his father.

John Couch, as referee, reported after many hearings that while several of the children of the codicil are opposed to public policy, the cotton manufacturer clearly intended to disinherit his son.

NOTES OF THE THEATRES.

Channory Glee will begin his New York engagement in George Colahan's comedy "The Voice of Maccabees" at the Manhattan Opera House on Thursday afternoon.

Cyril Maude will go on tour December 22, playing the Empire Theatre to William Gillette, who will appear at the Lexington Theatre in which will appear Sam Rothery, Louis Calvert, Hilda Spurz, Violet Kemble Cooper and Elizabeth Weston.

The Shuberts have put in rehearsal a spectacular musical show with McIntire, Health, the Black face comedians, which they will send on tour.

Morris Gees announces that Ed Wynn was placed under contract by him to appear in a new musical comedy, "The Great Gatsby," which will be produced by Hammerstein and will appear in the new revue December 12.

"Good Luck, Sam," the Camp Merritt show, has been successful at the Lexington Theatre that its run will be extended at the Truckee Theatre, beginning next Monday.

Annette Kellerman, now on her farewell tour of the B. & O. Theatre in New York before going on a tour of the world, will be featured at the Palace Theatre next week in her new revue.

JACOB OCKERS.

Jacob Ockers, 71 "Oyster King" died yesterday afternoon in his home on the South Country road, Oakdale, L. I. Capt. Ockers was conceded to be the largest individual oyster grower and shipper in the United States.

He was the first man to export oysters to Europe. Several years ago he headed the Blue Point Company, located at West Sayville, and capitalized at more than $1,000,000. He was also connected with the Jacob Ockers Oyster Company, which has extensive oyster holdings in Buzzards Bay and Cape Cod Bay. He was also a large planter in Delaware Bay.

Capt. Ockers was a director of the Oystermen's National Bank of Sayville, a director of the Life Fish Company and trustee of the Union Savings Bank in Patchogue. He was an Odd Fellow and a Mason. He was born in Holland, the son of an oyster planter, but had lived practically all his life in Oakdale. He leaves a wife, one daughter and two brothers, Capt. Fred Ockers of Sayville and Capt. Frederick Ockers of West Sayville.

MRS. ELLEN E. S. THOMPSON.

Mrs. Ellen Elizabeth Sutton Thompson, wife of Robert W. Thompson, and only daughter of the late Samuel Sutton and Sarah Pye of Lincolnshire, England, a lifelong resident of Brooklyn, died Tuesday evening in her home, 185 Moffatt street, Brooklyn. Mrs. Thompson was born on Marcy avenue near South First street, Williamsburg, November 25, 1841. She celebrated on November 27 the fifty-eighth anniversary of her wedding, which was performed by the Rev. William A. Mabin in St. Paul's P. E. Church, Brooklyn.

She was a member of Grace P. E. Church, Conelyne street, and of the Church Charity Foundation Guild. Of late years Mrs. Thompson was active in Red Cross work. Her husband, Robert W. Thompson, four children, Mrs. J. F. Wood, Mrs. Lawrence H. Goldsoll of Newport, R. I.; Mrs. Frank P. Reynolds and Andrew S. Thompson, three grandchildren and ten great-grandchildren survive.

Funeral services will be held this evening at 8 o'clock at her late residence, the Rev. William G. Iyle and the Rev. Duncan M. Genna officiating. Interment will take place Friday morning in the Cemetery of the Evergreens.

ALFRED SHIPMAN OGLESBY.

Albert Shipman Oglesby, 44, of Mohican Heights, Mount Vernon, president of the First National Bank of Tusculum since its organization, died of pneumonia yesterday after a short illness at the Lawrence Hospital, Bronxville.

He was born in Shelby county, Kentucky; was a professor in the University of Winchester, Kentucky, and brother of Volcanus H. Oglesby, former Congressman of Mohican Heights, and Dr. James Van Pelt Oglesby of New York.

LOUIS F. GOULE.

Louis F. Goule, secretary of the National Liberty Insurance Company, 62 William street, died of apoplexy yesterday when sitting at his desk. He was born in Cincinnati sixty-three years ago. Mr. Goule lived at 108th street and Central Park West. He had been with the company since 1882. Mrs. Goule survives him.

Want State War Record Kept.

The Sons of the Revolution of this State, in annual session yesterday, sent a protest to the Provost Marshal-General against the order asking that all draft board records be sent to Washington, on the ground that they are necessary for the compilation of what the State has done in the war. The association elected Robert Olyphant, president; William W. Ladd, first vice-president; Henry Russell Browne, secretary; and J. Wray Cleveland, treasurer.

Gave Up Stage After Marriage.

Shortly thereafter, or not long after Miss Baker had made her successful stage debut, she was married to John Drew, the ceremony taking place in Philadelphia in 1880. Despite the temptation to go on with a career which had started auspiciously, Mrs. Drew decided upon her marriage to give up the stage.

The late Louis Baker, her brother, died last night of apoplexy, the splendid stage traditions which were inevitably associated with the Drew-Harrymore-Baker families. Mr. Baker playing many important roles admirably up to the days of his last illness a few years ago. Mrs. Drew's son-in-law, Lieut. Devereux, was achieving fame as an actor when he gave up his work to go to the firing line in Flanders.

MRS. JOHN DREW,
LONG ILL, IS DEAD

Wife of Foremost American Actor Succumbs to Heart Lesion.

MARRIED 28 YEARS AGO

As Miss Josephine Baker She Was a Noted Beauty and Stage Favorite.

Mrs. John Drew, wife of the actor who is commonly accepted as "the best known Day in America," died a few minutes before 8 o'clock yesterday morning in the apartment in the Hotel Algonquin which Mr. and Mrs. Drew and their daughter, Mrs. John Devereux (Louise Drew), have occupied there during the winter months for several years.

The immediate cause of Mrs. Drew's death was a heart lesion and resultant complications, which developed in recent weeks. During the summer Mrs. Drew had suffered recurrent periods of illness at the Drew country home in the Algonquin, but temporarily Mrs. Drew had recovered sufficiently to make the journey into town.

More than two weeks ago it became apparent to her family and physicians that her illness had reached a point which indicated that there was little hope for her recovery. Her husband and daughter were at her bedside when she died.

Came From Family of Actors.

Mrs. Drew will be buried in Philadelphia, the birthplace of Mr. and Mrs. Drew, to-morrow. The funeral and burial services will be private.

Besides her husband and daughter Mrs. Drew leaves an infant grandchild, John Devereux, who was born to the former Miss Louise Drew and her husband, Lieut. John Devereux. They were married on the day Lieut. Devereux received his commission in the army a year ago last summer. He is now serving at the front in France.

Mrs. Drew was Miss Josephine Baker, a Philadelphia girl noted for her beauty. Her father was the late John Louis Baker, an actor of distinction, who was a close friend of the famous Mrs. John Drew, one of the most noted actresses-managers in the history of the American stage and mother of the John Drew, whom a present generation has recognized as a leader of American actors.

The John Drew of the present day and Miss Baker were, owing to the friendship between the Drew and Baker families, Philadelphia in the old days, playmates and close friends from childhood. Mental ability and a recognized physical charm caused Miss Baker, as she was approaching young womanhood, to devote her gifts to a stage career,
